University overview

Characteristics and history

Kagawa University was established in 1949 as a national university.

In October 2003, Kagawa University merged with Kagawa Medical University to form the new comprehensive 'Kagawa University'. Currently, the university has six faculties (Education, Law, Economics, Medicine, Engineering, and Agriculture).

All the six faculties have their respective master’s programs. In addition, the university offers two professional master’s programs (MBA and Law School). Doctoral programs are offered in only three faculties (Medicine, Agriculture and Engineering).

Course Outline

- Japanese language education
  Preparatory Japanese Language Education (spanning the first six months from October 2014 to March 2015) shall be conducted under the auspices of the Ministry of Education, Sports and Technology.
  Courses comprising Japanese Language and Japanese Affairs are tailored to match the students’ language abilities. (Either of the following).
  - Basic course: 12 classes per week
  - Intermediate course: 12 classes per week
  - Advanced course: 12 classes per week

- Specialized training
  After language training, academic training in the major subject will be conducted for one year (April 2015 to March 2016).
  Students shall receive dedicated supervision from their academic supervisor. In addition, students are welcomed to sit in on any graduate or undergraduate courses that are of interest to them as well as taking part in other aspects of courses, such as field trips and regional exchanges. There are also opportunities for teaching at the faculty’s attached, and local, schools from kindergarten to high school level. Students are also encouraged to attend the attached schools’ workshops and conferences.

Follow-up for graduates

The Kagawa University Foundation provides fellowship opportunities for excellent students to return to Kagawa University and continue their research after completion of the above teacher training course.
