About Kagawa University

Kagawa University is a national, comprehensive university. The university has six faculties; Education, Economics, Law, Agriculture, Medicine, and Engineering. There are more than 6000 students studying here, of which, over 200 are international students.

About Takamatsu City

The university is situated in Takamatsu City (population over 400,000). It is a mid-sized city, with the main station (Takamatsu Station) beautifully located at a seafront space called Sunport. Takamatsu City is home to a well-known Japanese garden called 'Ritsurin Park'.

About Kagawa Prefecture

Kagawa Prefecture is the smallest prefecture in Japan, and has a population of about 1,000,000. The climate is Mediterranean-like, with pleasant temperatures throughout the year. Some summers, however, can be a little hot. The cost of living is considerably lower compared to other parts of Japan

About 'Sanuki'

'Sanuki' is the old name of Kagawa. This name is synonymous with 'udon', a thick wheat noodle that is wildly popular among the local population. Udon shops are ubiquitous in all of Kagawa and it is no wonder that Kagawa's nickname is 'Udon Prefecture'. In addition, Kagawa is number one in the production of olives, fans, and gloves. She takes pride in having the longest walking shopping arcade in Japan, the biggest man-made lake in Japan, and has the most number of sunny days compared to other prefectures in Japan.

About Transport

Takamatsu City is directly connected to Kansai International Airport by limousine bus. Domestic flights are available from Haneda Airport, Narita Airport, and Naha Airport. In addition, direct international flights connect Takamatsu Airport to Shanghai, Seoul, Hong Kong, and Taipei.

Program Description

Sanuki Program offers students from partner universities abroad, mainly undergraduates, the opportunity to study at a Japanese university for one semester. Japanese language classes are tailored to the students' proficiency levels. All students in this program participate in a course called "Project Sanuki," where they collaborate with Japanese students on project-based activities addressing environmental issues in the Seto Inland Sea of Kagawa Prefecture.

Program Duration

There are two intakes per academic year. The Spring intake is on April, and finishes in August. The Fall intake starts from October and ends in February the following year.

Eligible Students

The program primarily targets undergraduate students who are enrolled full time at a university having an exchange agreement with Kagawa University. However, students from universities that do not have exchange agreements may also be considered as candidates. Students participating in the Sanuki Program should be those who are recommended by the home university on the basis of their academic performance, behavior and motivation. In addition, students should possess a certain level of oral communication skills in English and/or Japanese.

Language and Academic Requirements

With regards to Japanese Language ability, Sanuki Program accepts students from elementary level to advanced level. However, students with Japanese Language elementary level should have a good command of English Language. All students should have a good academic standing and personal record at the home institution, and have earned a respectable GPA.

Courses in the Program

Depending on the language ability, courses taken may differ from student to student. For beginners in Japanese language, we provide basic language instruction. For those with N2 or N1 in Japanese language, they can enroll for the 'regular' classes that are conducted in the Japanese language. All Sanuki Program students take some common courses that are conducted in both English and Japanese. Among all of the courses, "Project Sanuki," mentioned above, stands out as the flagship course of the program.

Taking Major-Specific Courses

As noted above, students with N2 or N1 level of Japanese Language may be able to take 'regular' courses in their major field in the related faculties. KUIO shall try to coordinate with the appropriate faculty to assist students in enrolling for the classes. For these students, we recommend that they refer to our brochure in Japanese Language.

Application Procedures

All applications must go through the international division at the applicant's university. Students first fill up application documents in electronic format. A Checklist is provided, and students can check the item boxes ☒ accordingly. When all the documents (including the Checklist itself) are properly prepared, hand over the electronic copies to the international division at your university.

Interview by Zoom

Where necessary, we may request students to undergo a 15 to 20 minute interview via Zoom as part of the application procedure. This is to allow us to verify the student's academic background, behavior, motivation, and oral communication skills (as mentioned in the previous page under 'Target students'). As an example, if a student is found to have significantly weak oral communication skills, the application may be declined.

Number of hours/classes in program

Japanese immigration laws require full-time international students to take at least 10 hours of classes per week. This translates to a minimum of 7 classes per week.

Course descriptions

Elementary Japanese classes

(Shioi, Takamizu), total 6 credits

Students can learn basic skills of the Japanese language: listening, speaking, reading, and writing. By mastering Japanese alphabet and basic expressions, students can start communicating with Japanese people in Japanese, which will make your life in Japan easier and more comfortable both in campus and in a local community. These skills will also lead to a better understanding of Japanese culture and community.

Other Various Japanese Classes

Students can choose from various Japanese classes according to their proficiency level. There are comprehensive classes covering all four language skills, classes focused on listening comprehension, and classes primarily centered on writing practice.

Japanese Current Affairs

(Kinoshita/Takigawa/Wu), 2 credits

The aim of this course is to learn about various aspects of Japan. You can study topics such as Japanese society, an overview of Shikoku and Kagawa, different regions of Kagawa, and various aspects of development, all in English.

Project Sanuki

(Takamizu, Shioi, Wu), 1 credit

‘Project Sanuki’ is a research based course whereby international students work with Japanese students on issues related to Sanuki/Kagawa. From 2020 onwards, the focus is on environmental issues surrounding the Japan Inland Sea. This focus fits ideally into the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) as espoused by the United Nations. We believe students will benefit tremendously from learning hands-on with members of the local community, the many issues/problems/prospects in relation to the Seto Inland Sea.

Leading Edge Issues in Kagawa University

(Takamizu, Shioi, Wu), 1 credit

This course presents a broad introduction to students to the 'leading edge' issues that is happening in the university. These issues cover the research, education, and contribution to the community conducted by the academic staff members of the university. The language used is English, and a different lecturer takes over the class in an omnibus system. Students include both the local Japanese students and those from abroad.

Special Lecture (Plastics, Circular Economy and the Environment)

(Lrong), 2 credits

In this course, we will explore the world of plastics, starting from their creation, global trade, and their impact on the environment and human life. Through the framework of the circular economy, we will seek ways to minimize the negative effects of plastic waste.

Assignment of Supervisors

Each student is assigned a supervisor from KUIO. This supervisor guides the student in matters relating to daily living, and courses in the program. Depending on the situation and need, a supporting supervisor from the appropriate faculty may be assigned. This supervisor may advise the student in academic issues relating to the major subject.

Student Supporters

All students in this program are paired with 'student supporters' who offer assistance in daily living. In addition, staff members at KUIO and other divisions (such as Health Clinic) are always ready to lend support to international students in times of need.

Fieldwork and Other Activities

Our university offers various opportunities for learning and activities outside the campus. For example, in the courses like "Project Sanuki" and "Japanese Current Affairs," students participate in fieldwork at locations related to the sea and places where they can immerse themselves in Japanese culture to meet the goals of each class.

Student activities (KUFSA, ICES, student clubs)

All international students at our university are part of the Kagawa University Foreign Students Association (KUFSA). The Kagawa University Intercultural Exchange Society (ICES), a club for Japanese students, organizes and runs activities to foster interaction with international students. These activities include welcome and farewell parties, day trips to islands in the Seto Inland Sea, and more (check the calendar in the previous page for more details). International students can also join various clubs such as Kendo club, Japanese tea ceremony club, and Japanese traditional music club.

Accommodation

Our university has a few dormitories for international students. The monthly rent ranges from approximately 10,000 JPY to over 20,000 JPY. We assist students in applying for these dormitories. If it is not possible to secure a dormitory room due to a shortage of rooms, we will help students find private apartments.

Costs

Exchange students coming through the university exchange agreement shall have their tuition fees waived. However they are responsible for the air fares, room costs, living costs, health insurance costs, medical costs, and other incidentals such as internet and telephone. Depending on the individual lifestyle, living costs (including insurances) can range from about 30000 yen to 50000 yen or more per month.

Scholarship

Depending on the circumstance (year and budget), scholarships may be available for certain selected students. These scholarships may come from the Kagawa University International Foundation, or from Japan Student Services Organization (JASSO). When appropriate, KUIO shall inform the parties concerned. However, students will only know if they can obtain the scholarship after arriving at Kagawa University.

Part-Time Jobs

In short-term programs like Sanuki Program, working part-time is generally not recommended. If possible, it is advisable to secure the necessary funds for the entire duration of the program before you come here.

Upon Completion of the Program

A closing ceremony is planned for students who successfully complete the program. Students shall be awarded a Certificate of Completion.

Thereafter, KUIO shall send the transcripts to the university of the student for further processing.

Beyond the Program

This program is designed for only one semester. Students who wish to continue studying for one more semester may consider registering as exchange students in the appropriate faculty for the remaining six months. However, please note that almost all classes in the undergraduate level are conducted in Japanese Language. Which means to say that students need to have achieved at least Level N2 to be able to sit in those classes.
